Will Meyrick The heat in the kitchen

Born in Portugal and raised in Scotland, master Chef Will Meyrick, who made his name on the Sydney culinary scene (Longrain and Jimmy Liks), has proven once again that he is one of the hottest chefs in the Asia-Pacific. Recently married, he lovingly serves up delicious delicacies now at Sarong restaurant in Bali's chic Seminyak area. His latest wonderwork boasts fab cuisine that titillates the Bali-based society set, and has really created a buzz with Meyrick at the helm cooking up a storm. Drawing on his interest in pan-Asian culinary trends, Meyrick creates fantastically unique twists on Indian, Chinese, Indonesian and Thai hawker fare. "The inspiration for Sarong is the street food of India and Southeast Asia. There's nothing I enjoy more than traveling around the region, tasting the street hawkers' offerings and bringing back some great new ideas to try out in the kitchen. I am always looking for colorful and innovative twists on old favorites," Meyrick tells us. When asked how it feels about making the DA MAN Hot List, he says: "It is a great honor to be selected. I'm glad there is a magazine that covers lifestyle for men."
