

The much-awaited opening of Sarong has now put Pettitenget firmly on the map when it comes to classy restaurants. The space that was previously Esmerelda's has been spectacularly transformed into a sumptuous dining pavilion with golden drapes, a sea of chandeliers and a number of finishing touches inspired from travels around Asia and the Orient. Chef Wil Meyrick brings his legendary 'Asian streetfood' inspired menu but this time with an Indian flavour. Beetle-nut scallops are there as a starter, together with dim sum and seared salmon and watermelon salad. Butter chicken, butterfish korma and Vindaloo pork belly are a few of the mains that are put in the middle of the table and shared between guests. The bar area is spacious and serves a selection of mixologist inspired cocktails together with a separate tapas menu.
